Carolina Tiger Rescue in Pittsboro not only provides a forever home to exotic animals in need, it educates the public on how we can make a difference for wild cats in captivity and in the wild. It is currently home to over 40 exotic animals, including tigers, lions, cougars, caracals, ocelots, bobcats and servals, some of which were rescued from private ownership or roadside zoos. Each of their stories provides a unique opportunity to educate the public on the plight of wild animals in captivity and their wild cousins.

KATIE CANNON is the Education Director at Carolina Tiger Rescue.
